

TEXAS MIDWAY GAMES

TEXAS MIDWAY GAMES are like games you find at a carnival, but with a unique, Texas twist. TEXAS MIDWAY GAMES are specifically designed by real TEXperts for people that want to laugh and have photo opportunities galore. And, we promise these games are different from any your guests have seen before. Just think, the VP of Sales is tossing open fronted toilet seats in Redneck Horseshoes while the CEO is playing Cowchip Shuffleboard. Your guests will just laugh at themselves, giving everyone in the room permission to let their hair down and have a great time!

Barn Raisin' – In Texas, the neighborly thing to do is help Bubba build his barns. Contestants form a team and build table-top barns that have proven to be a real puzzle to Yankees. The first team to finish their barn gets to start the dance.

Chick-Tac-Toe - Chick-Tac-Toe, three in a row! Get three chickens in a row and you're a winner, winner, chicken dinner!

Chunk the Tail on the Donkey - Bubba's momma didn't like him playing with sharp objects, so they magnetized the donkey's tail. Players chunk the magnetic tail on the donkey so Bubba won't put his eye out.

Cow Chip Shuffleboard - A Texas adaptation of the playground favorite. Players use push brooms to propel ornamental cow chips to a target. This wild activity really makes "scents." (indoors or on smooth concrete only)

East Texas Lawn Washers - The lowest impact sport in the world. East Texans, too poor to afford horseshoes, developed this game using washers and tin cans. This adaptation is fast moving, easy to learn and guaranteed fun.

Flapjack Fling - Your guests will flip out when they test their "skillet" this. A heavy iron skillet is used to toss faux flapjacks onto a table set for four hungry cowpokes.

Gone Fishin' - Fishing is one of Bubba's favorite past times. He'd rather go fishing than play golf any day. Try your luck catching the fish from Bubba's stock tank.

Jail Break - How many grade B westerns have you seen in which the prisoner breaks out of jail by stealing the sleeping Sheriff's keys and dragging them to his cell? Well, this game tests those skills. Players are put in "jail" and timed to see how long it takes to capture the keys with a grappling hook. (indoors or on smooth concrete only)

Justin Time Putting - Golfers will excel in this challenge. As opposed to a normal putter, a boot is substituted for the club head for a real Texas twist. Players putt real golf balls on a portable green. Guests always get a kick out of this.

Meadow Muffin Frisbee - A game that uses a Frisbee that resembles the meadow after the cows go home. These "meadow muffins" are tossed into a specialized basket used in Frisbee Golf. The largest number of "putts" made in succession is tallied. May the best muffin tosser win!

More Cowbell - Bubba's skill with a pea-shooter wasn't as appreciated by his teachers nearly as much as it was by his buddies. He even made a contest of it. Players shoot peas from a straw in an attempt to hit cowbells. That resounding DING! is the sign of a good shot. (this game is inside a tent, so outdoor space must be shielded from moderate to high winds)

Plate Plinkin' – Of course Bubba doesn't use his Momma's good Chinet, but flimsy paper plates make great targets for his wrist rockets. (this game is inside a tent, so outdoor space must be shielded from moderate to high winds)

Rattlesnake Round-Up - Bubba ain't skeered! He's been tossing snakes into a tub since he was three. Snake sticks, rattlers and tubs - any questions? Players get "bit" by this game.

Redneck Horseshoes - How does a redneck play horseshoes in Texas? Well, with open-front horseshoe shaped toilet seats, of course. This silly game is played by chunkin' the "shoes" over posts made of - what else? - plungers. A photo of the CEO tossing a toilet seat - priceless!

Redneck Regatta – Bubba and his family get together every summer down at the river for their annual Redneck Regatta. Players use a straw to sail the boat down the river and back. The faster they blow, the faster the boats go. (outdoors only)

Ropin' Ring Toss - Not everybody was born to be a roper, but even Yankees can toss a ring made out of Bubba's old calf ropes. Players build points by tossing rope rings over various objects. Targets include an 8' tall cactus and a coyote.

Shoot the Can - Find the "Annie Oakley's" in your crowd when the girls outshoot the boys. Contestants vie to see who the best shot is with a cork gun by competing to hit moving targets and tin cans. (this game is inside a tent, so outdoor space must be shielded from moderate to high winds)

Snuffleboard - There's no spitting in this match as players slide snuff cans at their targets for points. Combining the Bubba economy of using snuff cans as pucks with the classic barroom game of Shuffleboard turns this game into a real Texas hit.

Test of Nerves - Long before the game "Operation," Bubba invented this game to test the steady hand. Nerves of steel are required to navigate an iron ring over Texas icons (horses, armadillos, etc). A false move will result in a loud buzz; a perfect score will result in peaceful silence. (indoors only)

Texas Twister - Bubba says, "Tornadoes and RV's go together 'bout as good as flip-flops and stingin' scorpions." Colorful swirling "funnels" suspended from a tent are this game's target. Find out if Bubba is right by tossing RV's into the swirling dervishes. (this game is inside a tent, so outdoor space must be shielded from moderate to high winds)

What the Hay - It's not all play in Texas; sometimes you have to do a little work. In the winter, cows can't feed themselves, so the feed troughs need to be filled. Using a pitchfork to toss hay bales into the feed bins, accurate hay pitchers finish early and win the right to go play some more. (outdoors only)

World Tour of Texas - Have you ever been to Paris, Athens or Palestine? Bubba can visit all three in a single beer run. Contestants drive remote controlled pickups across dozens of international locations in Texas while hitting targets in a World Tour. Fastest tourist wins.

The TEXAS MIDWAY GAMES promote fun and laughter for both indoor and outdoor events and include an attendant to facilitate the game.
